Listing in small batches or in bulk

You can list a small number of products using the Add-a-Product tool, or you can use inventory files to list your products in bulk. Inventory file templates let you to add or edit product listings in bulk. You can create a template to suit your specific requirements and list different types of products across multiple categories using one template.

Build International Listings

The Build International Listings tool helps you create and update offers from a single source marketplace to one or more target marketplaces. You save time and effort by managing offers in one marketplace. From that source marketplace, the tool will update eligible offers and prices in the target marketplaces based on settings that you specify and currency exchange rates.

Build International Listings works across regions when you have connected them by linking accounts and performs the following automated tasks:

- Creates offers from a source marketplace to a target marketplace where the same ASINs already exist in both marketplaces.
- Synchronizes the offer prices in target marketplaces based on the price you set in the source marketplace and your price rules.
- Adjusts prices periodically to reflect currency conversion fluctuations in the target marketplaces' currencies. The frequency of these updates may vary from daily to weekly. These updates will not show changes of less than 1%.
- Adds or deletes offers in the target marketplaces when you make changes to eligible ASINs in the source marketplace.

High quality detail page and images

High-quality listings make it easier for customers to find, evaluate, and purchase your products. High quality listings begin with basic information: images, brands and descriptions. Detailed information, such as size, manufacturer part number and material type, can also help customers find your listings. For step-by step instructions on improving your listing quality, see Enhance your listings.

Winning the Featured Offer

The Featured Offer is the box on a product detail page where customers can begin the purchasing process by adding items to their shopping carts. If more than one seller offers a product, they may compete for the Featured Offer, the most visible offers on the product detail page. Sellers must meet performance-based requirements to be eligible for Featured Offer placement. Learn more

7. Understand international fulfillment requirements, including import and export regulations

Getting your products to Saudi Arabia

Using FBA in our SA store is a similar process once your items are in Amazon's warehouses, but getting the items to those warehouses in Jeddah and Riyadh has some unique differences than the process in the EU/UK. Amazon's Service Provider Network consists of independent third party providers and can be a good starting point to help you find out the right service for your business needs.

Regardless of which fulfillment method you choose, shipping to Saudi Arabia involves certain requirements. Ensure selecting delivery duty paid (DDP) as Incoterm on all your shipments and provide an Importer of Record (IOR) when inbound into Amazon's warehouse. These largely involve who is responsible for paying fees such as import duties and taxes.

Importer of record: An IOR is required to sell in Saudi Arabia. The IOR is the entity responsible for paying import duties and taxes, ensuring that your imports comply with local laws and regulations. Note that neither Amazon nor its fulfillment centers can serve as the IOR for FBA shipments. Learn more about important requirements for Saudi Arabia here or consult a third party provider.

Any product entering the Saudi market is required to be SABER certified. The application process must be initiated by your logistics partner. Detailed information regarding SABER certification can be found here

MANAGE YOUR BUSINESS

9. Understand tax and regulation requirements when you start selling

VAT is an indirect tax that applies to sales and purchases. The VAT Rates may vary depending on the destination country and items being delivered. The rate of VAT that applies to most supplies of goods and services in Saudi Arabia is 15%.

If you are not a resident in Saudi Arabia, supplying goods in Saudi Arabia through Amazon's FBA channel, then you will be required to register for VAT irrespective of the level of turnover from such sales. VAT registration will be effective from the date on which you started making sales in Saudi Arabia. All prices published on the Amazon webpage must include the amount of any applicable VAT. You should consider the price for your products as inclusive of any VAT, customs duty, excise tax or other tax that you may be required to remit in connection with such sale.

How can I apply for VAT registration and obtain a VAT registration number in Saudi Arabia?

In Saudi Arabia, you can register online on the tax authority's website. The application for registration should be made within 30 days of the first taxable sale made to customers in Saudi Arabia. Registering for VAT in Saudi Arabia may lead to a number of associated compliance requirements, including the requirement to file returns and to issue Tax Invoices in Saudi Arabia to your customers.

How can I update my VAT number in Seller Central?

You can enter your information relating to your VAT registration in your Seller Central account by visiting the VAT/GST Registration Numbers page.

If you need assistance with understanding your VAT compliance obligations in Saudi Arabia, then we recommend that you consult a tax advisor. You can find tax advisor details on the Service Provider Network Saudi Arabia page.

Important: Information on this page does not constitute tax, legal, or other professional advice and must not be used as such. You should consult your tax advisor if you have any questions.

10. Manage customer support in the local language and either provide a local address for returns or offer a refund for international shipping. (FBA manages fulfillment and returns questions.)

Customer support

Local language customer support: When you choose to fulfill customer orders yourself, it's not just the picking, packing, and shipping to customers that you'll need to handle; Amazon also requires that you handle customer support.

Timely responses: Customers expect prompt, helpful service when they have questions or concerns about your products. To maintain a healthy seller scorecard, you should have customer service specialists who understand your products, that know where the customer's product is and when it will be delivered, and who will be able to respond quickly (within 24 hours) to customer e-mail contacts in the local language. This may be challenging when selling in stores that are in different time zones from your place of business, as the time differences will shorten the timeframe in which you can respond to customers during your regular business hours.

Customer support for Fulfillment by Amazon: When you use FBA, Amazon will provide 24-hour customer support on your behalf in the local language of the relevant store. For many sellers, this feature of FBA is critical to selling in international stores successfully. With local language customer support already included in FBA, you can provide your customers with Amazon's world-class customer service, and you can focus on growing and managing your business.

Customer returns

When listing in an international store and fulfilling items on your own, you must either provide customers with a local return address within the country of their Amazon store website or offer them free shipment for returns. This is a requirement to sell on Amazon's stores. As you consider how your customers will return items purchased from you, please keep the following options in mind:

- Using Fulfillment by Amazon: When you choose FBA, Amazon will handle local returns on your behalf for FBA orders in that store, so you don't have to worry about providing a local return address.
- Implementing restocking fees and offering partial refunds: In certain situations, it might be appropriate to charge the customer a restocking fee or offer a partial refund on the product being returned. Restocking fees or partial refunds must comply with Amazon's policies on returns.
- Engaging a third-party International Returns Provider: We have created a list of returns providers that can accept returns in your customers' countries. Depending on your sales volume and unit price international returns providers may offer solutions that reduce the costs you incur when customers in other countries return your products. For example, some providers will consolidate returns and ship them back to you or ship them to another customer.
